Public law regulation of gambling activities and legal guarantees of freedom of economic activity

This dissertation provides a description and detailed characterisation of the objectives and selected public law rationing measures applicable to the organisation of gambling. The measures applied have been confronted with the freedom of economic activity. The applicable system of rationing has also been juxtaposed with selected rulings with selected judgments of the Court of Justice of the European Union and the Constitutional Court concerning the organisation of gambling. The essence of the considerations undertaken in the dissertation consists in the specification and characterisation of the elements comprising not only the rationing (of the adopted measures and objectives) of economic activity in the field of gambling establishment, but also the other (equally important) elements of the state's influence on the aspects strictly connected with gambling establishment.

In line with the research problem formulated in this way, three research objectives were established. The first was to establish the regulation of rationing and to identify rationing objectives. The next research objective was to assess the systemic state gambling policy. The last research objective of the study was to assess the impact of the jurisprudence of the Court of Justice of the European Union and the Constitutional Court on the conditions of conducting economic activity based on the organisation of gambling. The analysis of each of the undertaken objectives provides conclusions regarding the public law aspects of the rationing of economic activity in the sphere of practical legal and actual effects of the adopted system on a specific sector of the economy.
